sylvania was beaten fairly, Frinceton playing the stronger game.

Considering the condition of the ground a line-bucking game was the only one practical. Pennsylvania was undoubtelly handicapped by the slippery field, her sprinters, who were relied upon for most of the work, being unable to do effective running. Her tackles were weak, and her interference was poor, Osgood, who made several fine runs, practically domade several fine runs, practically do-ing his own interfering. On the other hand, Princeton's interference, in which King took the lead every time, was very good.

Even Heffelfinger might envy the exhibition of foot-ball which big Wreeler gave, particularly in his blocking of gave, particularly in his blocking of knip and knip, which gave Princeton her ouchdown.
Osgood did by far the most brilliant playing for Pennsylvania, both in tack-ling and running with the ball. Penn-sylvania's ends, which were looked upon as weak, showed up surprisingly strong. The play of Simmons was certainly equal to that of Captain Trenchard, Although Princeton failed to score in the second half, it could be seen that the played a defensive game talmost entirely, only aiming to make gains when there seemed no danger of losing the ball.

CADETS AGAINST ENION COLLEGE. WEST POINT, N. POLITICS OF BRITAIN Irish Questions Still the Source of Min-

FUTURE OF HOME RULE.

Prediction That There Will Be None After Gladstone's Death-London Note and Journalistic Comment.

Special cable letter-Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.) LONDON, November 4.-The first Cabinet Council since the parliamentary recess was held to-day. It was attended by all the ministers. The Cabinet ought to have met yesterday, but the meeting

Secretary for Ireland. Hence it has been readily assumed that the Irish questions, which the English Liberals had hoped were tabooed for the session, are again troubling the Cabinet. Ministerial circles attach less importance to the hostile action of the Parnel-lites who threaten to withdraw from the majority owing to the differences with the government as to the relief of evicted tenants, and the release of political prisoners, than they do to the widening breach between Moriey and Asquith, the Home Secretary.

MORLEY CONCILIATORY. Morels's Concelliatory policy towards the Irish. He advises the Cabi-net to introduce before Christmas a bill for the relief of evicted tenants in Ireland and to sclease several more political prisoners. He urges this policy as neces-sary to avert the partial dissolution of the Anti-Parnellite party under Justin McCarthy, upon whose unbroken support government depends to hurry cted English legislation. Asquith opposes Morley at each of these points, and reports credit the Cabinet with an overwhelming sentiment against asking Parliament to consider this winter debate. John Dillon, William O'Brien, and other Anti-Parnellites speak and write as if the government were pledged to introduce in the next session a bill to reinstate the tenants. Privately the Liberals of ministerial rank deny that any such pledge has been given REDMOND TO LEAD OFF.

REOMOND TO LEAD OFF.

On Monday John Redmond, leader of the Parnellites, will ask Mr. Gladatone In the House of Commons whether the government intends to introduce or to propose a temporary measure of relief, based upon the thirteenth clause of the land-purchase set of 1836, and supplemented by provisions for compulsory settlement.

Mr. Gladatono's reply can be predicted with considerable certainty. He will decline to introduce the bill suggested by Redmond, although he may indicate the cline to introduce the bill suggested by Redmond, although he may indicate the possibility of a compromise within the limits of the thirteenth clause. The wisdom of this course is concentrated in the point that no prolonged Conservative opposition will be provoked by it, and that the progress of the English bills will not be impaired.

IS HOME RULE TO VANISH?

IS HOME RULE TO VANISH? IS HOME RULE TO VANISH?

The Duke of Argyll, speaking in Glasgow this week, said the cause of Home Rule was dependent entirely upon the life of Gladstone, and with him would vanish from the field of politics. This theory of his Grace was hardly enunciated before it was most strikingly contradicted by the speeches of Asquith and Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, both of whom proclaimed for the first time their attitude in favor of federalizing the United Kingdom.

The Daily Standard, the Weekly Specta-tor, and other Unionist organs, dilate on the tremendous importance of a policy by which the Liberals virtually commit them-selves to revolution—to weakening the his-toric constituency of the constitution and transforming the United Kingdom into a collection of State governments on the Federal model. the Federal model.

A Vienna firm is reported to be offering A Vienna firm is reported to be offering on easy terms portable coining-machines. Many are said to have been sold on the Continent and not a few in England for export to India, where the native States and private concerns are transferring bar silver into rupees. Advices from India indicate that this illegal mintage is not likely to influence values or the imports of silver materially. Financial experts in Indian affairs agree that the unexpired magnitude of the Indian demand for silver is due partly to the cessation of the practice of melting down rupees for ornaments. This practice was too wasteful to be continued after the colnage of silver to be continued after the coinage of silver to be continued after the coinage of silver ceased, and bar silver is now used almost exclusively by the artisans and manufacturers, hence the recent influx of silver.

During the last three months the shipments of silver from England to China have amounted to more than double the quantity of silver shipped in the corresponding period of 1833. This enormous increase has helped greatly to sustain the price of silver. increase has he price of silver.

Hon B. B. Munford was introduced as Hon B. B. Munford was introduced as the first speaker, and the brilliant young orator fully sustained his reputation as being one of the ablest speakers in the Democratic ranks. He briefly explained the political situation, and made very plain the different issues of the campaign.

He reviewed the achievements of the present Democratic administration, and predicted that the party would gain another great victory next Tuesday. At the same time he urged the people to go out and work on the day of election, and see to it that every Democrat went to the polls and cast his ballot, and not leave this for some one else to do. He illustrated his point with the amusing story of the old colored man who prayed "dat de Lord might sen' him one of Mars John's fat shoats." The porker failed to appear, however, and the old darky changed his prayer and said, "Lord, sen' old Ephraim arter dat shoat," and before morning the prayer was answered.

All, through his speech Mr. Munford.

morning the prayer was answered.

All through his speech Mr. Munford was given the most generous applause.

Colonel G. K. Macon, one of the candidates for the House from this district, followed Mr. Munford, and made an ex-cellent talk. He was given a most cordial reception, and unless all the signs fall the First Ward will certainly do its duty on Tuesday and give the regular Democratic ticket a good majority. The city of Richmond will hardly have to redeem $400,000 of its baby bonds of September 1, 1894, as only about $210,000 September 1, 1894, as only about $110,000 have been issued, and no more are now offered for sale by the city. Of the amount in these bonds authorized only $250,000 were printed. But a small portion of the bonds issued were paid out to city employees, as it was only a few weeks until these employees were being paid off partly in currency smal partly in bonds. Now no bonds at all are being used for this purpose A large proportion of the bonds issued were proportion of the bonds issued were paid to contractors, to whom the city owed money, though many of them were sold at the City Hall at par.
